

4-Promote the site

Mar 13, 2003 10:58 PST

I am a big supporter of making our own fuel and am delighted to have this forum to evangelize.

I built one of your stills and have been running it for several months now. I have been going through the school of hard Knocks and look forward to this forum to share some of the Knocks with new members. I have been trying to use day-old bakery products but am finding that taking all of that stuff out of its packaging is a real pain. The actual mixing and mashing is working fairly well but working and keeping yeast growing can be a trick too. I am currently working on sourcing and assembling kits to build your still. I hope to have final pricing and details worked out soon.

How can I help get the word out?/ This looks like it will be a cool forum...I look forward to talking with you. Tom

Thanks for your first email, hopefully, one of many.

This list, at the moment, only has 12 members, but, hey, it is only 5 days old! I have posted a link to this newsgroup on two separate pages on my Ethanol website, link below.

So Wait and see what happens. Got to go right now. Bye. Robert Warren

<http://lists.topica.com/lists/robertwarren/read/message.html?mid=805813593&sort=a&start=0#>